The Society will introduce Maine's 2010 Cherry Blossom Princess Amanda Jagusiak and her family. She is the daughter of Andrew Jagusiak, currently in Iraq, and AnnaMary Portz of Alexandria, VA and Albany Township, ME, and the granddaughter of Madeline Jagusiak of Albany Township. A graduate of Mt. Vernon High School, she is a Radford University senior majoring in theater with a specialty in technical design and management, and a major in French. Amanda is a Dean's List student and a member of the scholastic honor society Phi Kappa Phi, the music honor society Sigma Alpha Iota, and the theater honor society Alpha Psi Omega. She also is a volunteer for several music-based philanthropies. Her academic-related experiences include being an alto singer for two advanced university choirs, the Radford Singers and the Madrigal Choirs, and serving as secretary of Radford University's Chapter of the United States Institute for Theater Technology, and as Sergeant-at-Arms for Sigma Alpha Iota, the music honor society. Amanda's other interests include reading, hiking and competitive rowing, originally as captain of the Mount Vernon High School crew team, but an activity she now participates in recreationally. With her academic excellence, extracurricular activities, and volunteerism, Amanda continues the 63-year tradition of Maine and the Society being represented by outstanding, highly accomplished young Maine women in the National Capital's largest and best-known non-government civic and social event which attracts national and international interest and participation.
